Another pipeline planned through Lindbergh area

Plans for another pipeline which will cross the Ferguson Flats and Lindbergh areas were unveiled by Imperial Oil last Wednesday at an open house at the Elk Point Seniors' Recreation Centre.

The ThickSilver Pipeline Project would see a 250 kilometre pipeline built at an estimated cost in excess of $200 million. Operating costs would be another $6 to $9 million annually.

The proposed project would include a 30 inch diameter line to transport blended bitumen from Cold Lake to Hardisty and a 12 inch diameter line to transport diluent from Hardisty to Cold Lake, with both lines in the same trench, in an 80-foot right of way. The north section of the line, from Cold Lake to Lindbergh, would parallel the existing Husky pipeline right-of-way, while the southern portion, from Lindbergh to Hardisty, would parallel the Gibson-Elan pipeline route. A booster pump station would be installed in the Lindbergh area to maintain pipeline pressure.

Imperial's Cold Lake Project is the second largest source of crude oil in Canada, producing 115,000 barrels of bitumen a day. Planned expansion by the end of the decade could increase this to 150,000 barrels, which when blended for pipeline transport would equal 210,000 barrels per day. The planned pipelines could initially transport 100,000 barrels of blend and 25,000 barrels of diluent, increasing to 400,000 barrels of blend and 100,000 barrels of diluent when operating at full capacity.

Operation of the pipeline would be totally controlled from Imperial's pipeline control centre in Calgary, and would be connected to the Supervisory Control and Data Acquisition pipeline monitoring system.

The pipeline would provide a safe, cost-effective way of transporting the oil, according to Imperial's Ken Bahadur, who outlined the steps being taken to ensure the project will not unduly effect the environment. Assessments to determine impact on wildlife, flora and fauna and river crossings are now underway. Safety in the future will be ensured by using corrosion protected pipe which is electronically

JUNIOR ALL AROUND CHAMPION Ashley Larson was presented with the Charlene Baker Memorial Plaque by Shanna Baker at the Elk Point Agricultural Society's Annual Horse Show. Miss Larson, along with Senior High Point winner Terrie Kromrey of Lloydminster, will be the first winners to have their names on the plaque, which honors the memory of one of the horse enthusiasts responsible for bringing horse shows to Elk Point. Danielle Schnurer won the 13-and Under High Point and Lana Graham the 13 and Under All-Around. Watch for full details next week.

Truck, tank leave town in the dark

A picker truck carrying an empty storage tank down 50th Avenue near the Elk Point Hospital left part of the community in the dark and without telephone service Friday night when the tank caught in overhead lines. Power was out for approximately seven hours and phone service was not restored to some areas until late Saturday afternoon.

The incident is still under investigation by the RCMP.

A GOLDEN PAST was celebrated by the staff of the Toronto Dominion Bank in Elk Point last Friday, with visits from bank officials and cake for all their local friends and customers.

Toronto Dominion Bank - 50 years in Elk Point

Another local business has marked its half century milestone. The Toronto Dominion Bank, which opened its first Elk Point Branch on June 23, 1947, celebrated its golden anniversary last Friday with a festive gathering offering lunch and cake to customers old and new.

Manager Gloria Pundick told those present that the current bank building was built in 1981, and was recently renovated. "We've come a long way from hand posting to new technology," she noted. Ms Pundick noted that this was a dual celebration for one member of the staff. Connie Capjack, who has been with the TD for twenty years, was presented with flowers and a huge cake to mark the occasion.

Regional Manager Lorne Anderson said the event parallels his own upcoming 50th birthday. He praised present and former staff for their efforts. "You don't survive in a community without good service and good staff." He added that these factors have been instrumental in the branch's growth in customer base over the past few years.

inspected, and by monitoring the right of way by aircraft twice weekly.

Following the current round of meetings with interested residents and landowners at open houses in impacted areas, an application will be made to the Energy and Utilities Board and Alberta Environmental Protection. A decision on the application is expected early in 1998, after which detailed engineering would take place, with construction to begin in the spring of 1999. The pipeline would be operational in the year 2000.

the bank, also brought greetings to the staff and said he was "looking forward to another fifty years" of the same kind of service.

Bill Schuhmacher offered congratulations on behalf of the Town of Elk Point, and thanked the TD for their perseverance over the years. "When I came to Elk Point 32 years ago, it was already a landmark."

Keeping up the tradition of growth, Manager Pundick opened twin $50 savings accounts for two tiny depositors who were on hand for the celebration, four-month-old Calvin Dore and his brother, four-year-old Mitchell Dore.

20-YEAR EMPLOYEE Connie Capjack was honored with flowers for two decades at TD.

From the FCSS desk...

School days are here again!

By Deanna Easthope
FCSS Director

Boy oh boy, where did the summer go? This week, school registration is taking place and next week, it is back to school for all our children!

Whenever I think of school I think of books. Clarence Day is quoted as saying the following about books: "The world of books is the most remarkable creation of man; nothing else that he builds ever lasts. Monuments fall; nations perish; civilizations grow old and die out. After an era of darkness, new races build others; but in the world of books are volumes that live on as young and fresh as the day they were written, still telling men's hearts of the hearts of men centuries dead." Oh, the things we can learn about people, their history, and their culture just by reading books. What was, truly becomes visible today.

Another quote I like is by Francis Bacon. He states: "Books: some are to be tasted, others to be swallowed and some few to be chewed and digested." What this means to me is that we need to be selective in what we read as well as being able to recognize important material that needs to be accepted by our memory so that it can be applied to our lives.

There is another statement made by an unknown person which states: "A lighthouse with no light is worse than no lighthouse at all." I would like to apply this quote to reading books. To me it can mean that no matter how many books are available to a person, if a person doesn't pick up a book and read it, this becomes worse to the person than if he/she had no books at all to read.

So, to all of you going back to school, may you begin your school year by making a commitment to yourself to learn as much as you can by giving your learning a foundation by reading.

In conclusion, I would like to quote the following poem by Emilie Poulsson.

BOOKS ARE KEYS

Books are keys to wisdom's treasure;

Books are gates to lands of pleasure;

Books are paths that upward lead,

Books are friends. Come, let us read.

TIC talk

By Sherry Pelech
Tourist Information Clerk

Some people stopped at the Tourist Information Centre (TIC) the other day who were eloquent in their praise of the beauties of nature around Elk Point and area. The woman claimed she had been a resident of Edmonton her whole life but this was the first time she had ever been to this part of the province. They were especially impressed with the valley by the Salt Plant at Lindbergh. We told her that we were impressed with the valley ourselves. In fact, when we used to live there, we would come home from holidays and wonder why we ever bothered to leave. The Lindbergh valley compares most favorably with any of the scenery we found in the mountains or the BC interior or the coast and far surpasses (we're sorry, Saskatchewan) anything you can find to the east of us.

We had another guy in this week who was not so enamored with our wonders of nature. It seems the poor sod was trying to get to Elk Point from Bonnyville via the new Murphy Road. Now the Murphy Road (oil being well) will someday be an excellent highway. But at the moment it is plagued with potholes, ruts, gravel and detours. In fact, unless you are driving a really big truck or a possibly a tank you should probably avoid it. Our poor visitor had wandered, lost and helpless almost all afternoon until he finally decided to only travel west, reasoning that eventually he had to come to a main highway. Which he did. Although, as someone said recently, "The shortest distance between two points, is never a road." We think it might be prudent, at the end of the tourist season, to send out a few search parties into the Ferguson Flats and Spring Park areas to look for any other lost visitors who have not found their way out of the wilderness.

We also had another lost individual who came in looking for a place called The 4th R somewhere on 99th Street. To which we had to tell him, "We are sorry, sir, not only do we not have a 4th R, we don't even have a 99th Street." Nor are we apt to have one in the foreseeable future, no matter how fast the town is growing. (It turned out he was in the wrong place altogether.)

We have many good reasons for people to come to our area. And we have many good reasons for them to stay. That is, besides not being able to find their way out.

READiscover winds up with science fair and sleep(?)over fun

By Karina Mitchel
READiscover coordinator

Cool nights, back-to-school sales and even a few red leaves warn us of the end of summer and the end of the Library's Summer Reading Program. Our last sessions flew by as we discussed Wheels and Wings. (Get it? Wings - flew by?)

With Thursday's group, we looked at books of exotic cars, pining after the Porsches and Lamborghinis, solved a hit-and-run with Encyclopedia Brown, and read about a time before the invention of the wheel in the time travel book Your Mother is a Neanderthal by Jon Scieszka. And this was just our reading time together.

Our exploration of wheels and wings continued with games and crafts. We sat inside a huge parachute mushroom enjoying the parachute borrowed from Parent Nursery. Thank you to the Parent Nursery! Some also made flying bugs out of egg cartons and pipe cleaners while others made clothespin cars. The children became artists and architects, spending so much time creating the perfect spider web or picking out the perfect buttons for the wheels of their car. In the end, all were happy with their creations.

And no discussions of wings would be complete without a few paper airplanes. Both groups got to defy gravity with twirling, spinning and diving planes. After the paper was colored and folded, we let fly and were very happy with the results.

COMMUNICATION SOUNDS LIKE FUN with these handmade telephones.

The younger group was treated to a visit from Constable Chris de la Giroday, who took the time to talk to this group about bicycle safety before letting the children check out his car! They took turns sitting in the driver's seat and in the back, checked out Constable Chris' handcuffs and got to experience the lights and siren up close. It was a thrill for them now, but after they have their own cars and are driving, I don't think those are things they will be quite so happy to see. Thank you very much, Constable Chris! You did a great job with the kids and it was greatly appreciated!

They did get to speed around (without breaking any speed limits) after they decorated boxes, turning them into cars. With a paper plate for a steering wheel, they zoomed around the library, having lots of fun.

The grand finale of the Reading Program was a Science Fair on Wednesday evening followed by a sleepover. The Science Fair was open to the whole community and many came out to enjoy the activities and games. There were stations set up with experiments and crafts from each week of the Summer Program. Prizes were handed out, games were played, bubbles were blown and we got to smash open the spider pinata.

And then there was the sleepover. Movies, more games, some stories, more prizes... and absolutely no sleep! A big Thank You goes out to Melissa Easthope who has been helping out through out the summer. She spent the night as well and did a terrific job playing with the sleepless group. We shared a few giddy moments during the night. The earliest anyone got to sleep was around 4 a.m. so I think there were more than a few naps the next day. And hopefully some good memories of a fun ending to a fun summer. Thank you to the parents who drove on the field trip, waited patiently for crafts to be finished and stuck around to help! It was a wonderful time, learning and playing with all who participated in the Library's Summer Reading Program. I may even be ready to start again... after I've had another nap!

DANCING RAISINS fascinate this small Science Fair visitor with their antics.

The Friends come through again to help out our finances

By Michele Duczek
Librarian

The Friends of the Library once again came through and worked a successful bingo raising just over $1600. Once again the library is very grateful to those volunteers who come through time and time again to help out. And once again I am renewing my plea for all you library supporters out there to join the Friends of the Library. A commitment to work only one bingo a year would mean a lot. The funds the Friends raise through their bingos go to purchase books and other materials for the library, finance library programs like the very successful READiscover Summer Reading Program, and pay for conferences for staff and Board throughout the year. If you would like to help out the library, come talk to me.

And for all of you who did-

Tennis court gets new surface upgrade

Three years of scrimping, saving and fundraising has paid off for Elk Point Tennis Club, who now have a great new surface on their courts to show for their efforts. The Tennis Club gave up their usual instruction program and undertook fundraising projects to pay for the $7400 project, with permission from the Elk Point and District Agricultural Society, which owns the facility, to upgrade the courts at no cost to the Society.

The two-coat acrylic finish was poured on and squeegeed into place on top of a newly primed and sealed base.

John Konihowski of Jones-Konihowski Enterprises, a Calgary based sports surfaces firm, said the primer-sealer fills voids in the original surface and makes the coating adhere better. "The prep work is most important." The acrylic coating has a small amount of sand in it, to give players better traction. The coating is "fortified and extra strong. Two coats of this is the equivalent of four coats of lighter material."

Tennis Club president Jim Hawkins said the coating gives the surface color and makes "a very playable surface" which slows the ball down and makes for better tennis action. Given good curing conditions, the courts should be ready for play by this coming weekend.

GOING FOR THE GREEN -- Former football star John Konihowski (right) now operates a sports surface firm, which was given the contract for resurfacing of the Elk Point Tennis Court. He supervises assistant Spencer Easthope in the mixing of the fortified acrylic coating.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

WATER RESOURCES ACT SURFACE WATER DIVERSION
